"BILLY" DAVIS IS SENTENCED TO GLEN MILLS

Convicted of Murder Last

HOTEL MAN GETS JAIL

Narrows Hotel Proprietor Is Sentenced to Prison by Judge Keller

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 23.—"I am not going to comment on this sad and tragic case any further," declared Judge Calvin S. Boyer here yesterday when he sentenced William Davis, eleven, of 7909 Geyer avenue, Philadelphia, to the Glen Mills Reform School for killing Stanley Picuski, nine, a Bucks County farmer's son, on August 1.

Davis was convicted of manslaughter last Friday by a jury of two women and ten men. He was tried for murder. He shot at a carriage in which the Picuski boy was riding with his grandfather, Adam Rawa, fifty. He told the jury that he was mad at Rawa for stepping on his bean patch and that he took a shot at the carriage in which they were riding. By mistake, the bullet fired from a 22-caliber rifle, struck and killed the Picuski boy.

Young Davis was brought into court yesterday by County Detective Anthony Russo. He seemed just as unconcerned as he did throughout his trial. Judge Boyer called him to the bar of the Court.

"We hope, William, for your sake, that you will be able to forget this; not that you will forget the gravity of this offense, but that you will forget about it. We are going to help you grow up to be a good man. The sentence imposed is not to punish you, but for the purpose of giving you a chance to attend a school where you can learn a trade and grow up to be the sort of boy your father will be proud of.

"Do you want to do this?" the Court asked Billy.

"Yep, Judge, I do," William, happy about the sentence, replied.

Deputy Sheriff Horace E. Gwinner took Davis back to the House of Detention, from which place he will be taken to Glen Mills.

The sentence imposed on Davis is intermediate. The policy at Glen Mills is to keep those committed there until they are twenty-one although the officials of the school have the right to parole.

Joseph Teleky, of 720 Fifth street, Bethlehem, owner of the notorious Narrows Hotel, near Kintnersville, was sentenced by Judge Hiram H. Keller to serve not less than nine months or more than 18 months in the county prison and pay a fine of $100 and costs for possessing intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes. He was convicted last week in criminal court. On another charge of violating the liquor laws Teleky received a three-month suspended prison sentence and a fine of $100 and costs, the second sentence to start at the expiration of the first, after which the defendant will be placed on probation for two years.

Judge Keller denied Teleky a new trial in one case. The Court stated that he saw no reason why the verdict of the jury should be changed.

Peter W. Rau, of 310 High street, Hellertown, who pleaded guilty last week to possessing and selling liquor at the Narrows Hotel, was fined $200 and costs and sent to prison for three to six months today by Judge Keller.

Joseph Sigmund, 34, of 315 Hall street, Bethlehem, who pleaded guilty to possessing liquor at the Narrows Hotel, was indicted with Teleky. He was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to three to six months in the county prison.

Judge Keller appointed a committee to confer with the Court to recommend, revise and compile new rules of the several courts of Bucks county and to have them published in book form at the expense of the county. The committee is composed of William H. Satterthwaite, Clarence J. Buckman, Thomas Ross, Isaac J. Vanartsdalen, Arthur M. Eastburn, Mark Thatcher and Harry E. Grim.

ANOTHER TOURNAMENT

Another tournament will be held on the Folio Thru Golf Course at Alexander's service station on the Highway below Mill street, starting tomorrow evening. Two classes, one for men and the other for women, with prizes in each class. The tournament will run from September 24th until October 1st.

We are wishing all our friends a happy and prosperous New Year.

Morrisville Seniors to Formally Adopt By-Laws to Govern Them During the Coming Term—Freda Seiz Narrowly Escapes Death—Sabbath School Workers Adopt Standard B as Formulated by International Council.

MORRISVILLE, Sept. 23.—In connection with the study of parliamentary procedure, the rules of which the classes of the junior and senior high schools here have been studying for the past week as part of the English course, the senior class will formally adopt a constitution and a set of by-laws to govern them during the coming term. They are the only class in the high school to do this.

A committee to devise this constitution and set of by-laws was appointed by Charles Lucas, president of the class, and includes Fred Wright, chairman; Neal Nolan, Frank Braker, Jane Farrell and Norman Bond. An advisory committee in connection with the work is composed of: Charles Seltzer, chairman; Elwood Felsburg and Mildred Bond. The constitution and by-laws will be ratified at the class's next meeting.

Charles Lucas is president of the class, Charles Seltzer vice-president, Alice Wright secretary, and Kenneth Yost, business manager and treasurer.

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 23.—Freda Seiz, daughter of George Seiz, of Horsham, narrowly escaped death Sunday on South Main street, this borough when the car in which she was riding with her father, was side-swiped by another car driven by John M. Simonds, of Trevoze.

The accident happened shortly before noon near the Oakland avenue intersection. Simonds was driving a sedan. Another car, owned by Harry Krusen, was parked on Main street, near the intersection. About the time that Seiz, in a runabout, was next to the parked car, Simonds in his sedan tried to pass and a crash resulted.

The little girl was thrown through the windshield of her father's car. She was rushed to the Emergency Hospital, where it was necessary to take a number of stitches to close up cuts on the throat and face.

Chief of Police James J. Welsh stated today that Simonds will be arrested and given a hearing tonight before Justice of the Peace W. Carlisle Hobbs at 8 o'clock.

RIEGELSVILLE, Sept. 23.—Among the items of business transacted at the 64th annual convention of the Bucks County Sabbath School Association in St. Peter's Lutheran Church here was the adoption of Standard B which was formulated by the international council. This standard was prepared for the average school where there is ordinary leadership. This standard covers curriculum, leadership, organization and administration and housing and equipment.

Standard A, it was pointed out, has a more complicated schedule and it was felt that Standard B would be more suitable for the schools of the county, particularly in the rural sections.

Black and White and Green and White to Be Predominating Colors

DISCARD BRIGHT ONES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(INS)—Brilliant colors will fade into the background while black and white and green and white will predominate throughout the nation in forthcoming styles for 1931.

Following an extensive survey by the American Automobile Association it was announced that although practically every hue will be represented next year on automobile license plates of the various states the black and white color scheme will be outstanding.

Thirty-five states will change the color combination and twenty-six different motifs will be used, the survey revealed. Eleven states and the District of Columbia will retain the 1930 colors, reversing the background and foreground coloring.

Popular choice is divided between two combinations, white on black and white on green each being adopted by five states. Next in rank comes black on orange, white on maroon, yellow on black and black on white, each of these being used by three states. Black on gold, white on blue, black on yellow, old gold on blue and green on grey each will be seen in two states.

The Canal Zone will use red letters in a white background as formerly while the Philippines will have grey on black. Hawaii, Porto Rico and Alaska have not yet selected their 1931 motifs.

Following are the 1931 combinations for passenger cars in all states, with the exception of Missouri and Oregon:

State	Color Scheme
Alabama	Orange on Green
Arizona	Black on Orange
Arkansas	White on Black
California	Orange on Black
Colorado	Black on Sienna
Connecticut	White on Maroon
Delaware	Colonial Blue on Old Gold
District of Columbia
Florida	Crome Yellow on Black
Georgia	White on Dark Maroon
Idaho	White on Green
Illinois	White on Black
Indiana	Black on Light Green
Iowa	Dark Blue on Old Gold

MORRISVILLE COUNCIL HEARS ABOUT ROADS

Report Criticises Condition of Trolleys Operating In The Borough

OTHER TOWN AFFAIRS

MORRISVILLE, Sept. 23.—All the streets which were rebuilt last year are being resurfaced with tar and stone and placed in first-class condition. This was the report of the Street Committee given at a meeting of Common Council held in the Council Chamber.

The work on Wood Street, Moreau and Green Streets has been completed. Van Sant, Harrison, Washington, Union, Crown Streets and Pennsylvania Avenue, north of Trenton, will be completed in the present street program. There is also a move on foot to have Delaware Avenue and Central Avenue repaired with stone and tar and it is expected that this work will be done if the finances of the borough will permit after the present work is completed.

The Street Committee also reported that the plot of ground at the Union Street canal bridge will be filled in and sod placed there. The streets in Manor Park were reported cleaned up and Chairman Harry M. Lair suggested that the borough purchase a street sweeper for the clean-up work.

Permission was asked by the Philadelphia Electric Company to lay a new gas main on South Pennsylvania Avenue from Green Street to Bridge Street. The main will be laid under the sidewalk on the west side and after the main is laid the corporation will have all new sidewalk laid along this entire stretch. Permission was granted.

Under the report of the Light Committee members of council voiced complaints about the lights being out for a long time after a storm and on other occasions. The time for the turning on of the lights was also objected to. The report also stated that a number of new lights had been placed in the borough.

Treasurer Watson J. Simons reported having delivered to the purchaser the $25,000 worth of borough bonds which had recently been issued.

Under the work of the Public Property Committee it was voted to have the roof of the Borough Hall painted. There was considerable discussion about unpaid street assessments and the borough solicitor was authorized to proceed with the collection of the amounts due.

Council voted to procure speed signs to be placed at the entrance to the borough. These will designate the speed limit permitted in the borough.

The condition of the roadway and the condition of the cars used by the Pennsylvania and New Jersey Traction Company between Morrisville and Trenton came in for severe criticism by members of Council and it was suggested that the matter be presented to the Public Service Commission. It was stated that the roadbed is in a very dangerous condition at places along the route, that the cars are sometimes not fit for passengers to use because of the dirty condition and that the service is interrupted because the cars are broken down. It was stated that service Friday was interrupted for a considerable time because all of the cars were broken down at the same time. One of the councilmen re-

Travel Club Appeals For Donations of Flowers

The Bristol Travel Club members are requested to take notice that Thursday, September 25th, is the last day for them to have charge of the booth at Pratt street, Philadelphia, where flowers are received to be distributed among the "flowerless."

All members and others having flowers to donate are asked to leave them at Mrs. Williams', 805 Radcliffe street, not later than nine o'clock.

It is stated that if each member will bring a few flowers there will be enough to carry cheer to many a person who rarely even sees flowers.

Successful Card Party Held at Newportville

The card party which the Newportville Fire Company held in the Fire Hall on Friday evening was very successful. Seventeen tables were arranged, five of "500" and twelve of pinocle and eight games were played. A very good lunch was put on sale.

Those attaining high scores and receiving lovely prizes were as follows: In "500"—E. H. Middleton, 5330; Mrs. Rose, 4670; Mrs. P. McGee, 3490; Mrs. J. M. Force, 3640; Mrs. E. Middleton, 3580; Mrs. W. Haas, 3300; Mrs. Hugh Gallagher, 3130; Mrs. McGonigle, 3050; Mrs. F. Nealis, 2670; Mrs. Ennis, 2590.

Pinocle—M. Bazzel, 808; Edith B. Taylor, 775; Cyril Prinold, 774; Alex Crawford, 770; H. Dugan, 758; W. Murray, 743; Adeline Smith, 730; Mrs. Charles Goodbred, Jr., 724; Jennie McElroy, 721; W. J. Keers, 700; Ralph Bruden, 699; Alice Taylor, 696; Mrs. Stever, 692; Minnie Obrecht, 691; Lily Crawford, 690; Joseph Geiger, 687; V. Christopher, 678; B. Rudy, 677; M. The Fire Company wishes to thank all those who attended or helped in any way.

CHILDREN CROWD INTO DOYLESTOWN FAIR

Opening Day Attracts Record
Breaking Attendance at Doylestown

IS A CLEAN EXHIBITION

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 23.—With school children from every section of Bucks and adjoining counties pouring into the grounds this morning the eighth annual Doylestown Fair opened its gates at 10 a. m. During the next five days and nights there will much to see on the fair grounds.

With racketeers banished from the start this year the fair officials are confident they will be able to put across the cleanest exhibition of its kind ever presented in this section of the country.

From an educational standpoint the fair this year far surpasses any previous fair held here. The Granges of the county are competing for prizes with very wonderful displays of farm products on exhibition in the automobile building.

Today is "Children's Day" and the youngsters are the guests of the fair officials. This afternoon the Democratic state candidates will speak briefly from the platform in front of the big grandstand. John Hemphill, of West Chester, candidate for Governor, will speak through the "micro" in front of the grandstand about 4 o'clock. Sedgewick Kistler, of Lock Haven, candidate for the United States Senate will also be a speaker.

Tonight at 8 o'clock in the Friendship Thimble dining hall a unique banquet will be staged at which time nothing but rabbit meat and other dishes prepared from rabbit will be served. It will be the occasion of the first annual banquet of the Philadelphia Rabbit and Cavy Breeders' Association. The rabbit and cavy show sponsored by this association is one of the outstanding features of the entire fair.

The flower show this year is a gorgeous sight. It equals many of the large city shows in quality. Miss Emma Trege Fell, of Holicon, is in charge of the department. The miniature floral picture competition as well as the most artistic arrangement of flowers in glass, china and pottery and the most artistic arrangement of fruit

Lives of Two Tullytown Residents Snuffed Out in An Instant —Impact of Sedan Against Truck Twists Former Into Mass of Jumbled Steel and Glass—Truck Driver Had to Jump to Save Himself from Injury—Car Was Being Operated Under A New York License.

A man and a woman were killed, one was seriously hurt and three received cuts and bruises in two automobile accidents in this section last night and this morning.

Dead:
John DiCicco, 38, Main street, Tullytown.
Antoinette Gilardi, 53, Wood street, Tullytown.
Injured:
Domenico DiCicco, 35, Main street, Tullytown. Cuts about the chin and face.
John DiCicco, Jr., 5, Main street, Tullytown. Cuts and lacerations of the face and forehead.
Frank Dickel, 35, 4806 Rawle street, Philadelphia. Fractured skull.

Edward Lane, 48, 4718 Rawle street. Cuts and bruises.
The accident in which the two fatalities occurred took place at about 8 o'clock last evening, just this side of the crossroads at Penn Valley.

AROUND THE WORLD TODAY

WEST CHESTER, Sept. 23.—Chester County authorities started their first move today towards the solution of the mysterious slaying of the young woman whose body was found in an abandoned quarry near Malvern Sunday by a group of picnickers.

The body, with a bullet wound in the head and a strap tightly drawn around the throat, was identified last night as that of Mrs. Margaret Scheetz, 26, of Hughes Park, near Norristown.

Identification was made by the woman's husband, Harry Scheetz, who was immediately arrested, although no charges were placed against him. He will be quizzed today.

Scheetz said his wife had left home on Saturday apparently to go to a nearby grocery and had not returned.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Almost "pulled up" in the stretch, the St. Louis Cardinals today waited another crack at the defenseless Phillies to give an unbreakable toe-hold on the National League hunting. They maintained their two and one-half game lead over the Chicago Cubs by walloping Philadelphia 15 to 7, while the Bruins continued in the race as far as figures go, by turning back the Boston Braves, 6 to 2.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 23.—George Sherman Myers, 40-year-old ex-convict, today confessed, according to authorities, to the murder of Marvin Appel, 8, whose body was found near his home August 29th, after she had been criminally attacked and strangled with a wire.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—Given a reception that belittled the title of "gem of the ocean" wished on him by German authorities who refused to permit him to land in Germany, Jack "Legs" Diamond, 34-year old New York gangster, was slated to be given a hearing here this morning before Magistrate Edward Holland.

PETERHEAD, Scotland, Sept. 23.—Forty members of the crew of the British steamer "City of Osaka" were rescued by means of a breeches buoy today a few hours after the vessel went ashore on the rocky northeast coast of Scotland six miles south of Buchanan Ness, off Aberdeenshire.

The breeches buoy was catapulted to the vessel's deck by a lifeboat which put out to her assistance on receipt of an S. O. S. The remaining forty members of the crew were expected to be rescued by the same means shortly.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The investigation of the alleged Russian wheat futures short selling campaign, involving upwards of 7,500,000 bushels of December grain, had definitely shifted to Chicago and New York today, with the added assurance from Rep. Fish (R) of New York, chairman of the special "anti-Red" committee, that his group would take cognizance of the charges in New York by next Saturday.

MARRIED AT TULLYTOWN

On Saturday evening, September 13th, 1930, at 8 o'clock, by Joshua H. Cooper, Justice of the Peace of Tullytown, Pa., William Martino and Edith Hubley were united in marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. DiCicco along with their five-year-old son, John, Jr., Mrs. Gilardi and Louis Dellarosa, who boarded with the DeCiccios, left Tullytown at about 7:20 to go to Trenton. Dellarosa was at the wheel of the machine which was his and which he operated under a New York license.

Just this side of the cross-roads at Penn Valley a heavy truck loaded with sugar was parked off the concrete on the right hand side while the driver thereof was making some adjustments. The driver of the truck, Lamont Taylor, Lafayette and Rowan avenues, Trenton, N. J., was standing at the rear of his truck when his attention was attracted by a machine coming toward him at a high rate of speed.

"I knew it was going to hit me," said Taylor in commenting on the crash. "Just as the Dellarosa car reached the truck the driver swerved to the right but caught the rear end of it. I jumped under the truck or I would have been killed, too," concluded Taylor.

After the crash, Taylor crawled from beneath his own machine and went around to investigate and was horrified to find the arm of a man sticking to the tail board of his vehicle.

"Everything was smashed up terribly and there was no one around to give me a hand," said Taylor.

Passing motorists brought the dead man to the Harriman Hospital here, but life was extinct when he was admitted to the institution. He suffered a compound fracture of the skull and his right arm was off at the shoulder.

Mrs. DiCicco was slightly cut about the face and her son suffered a deep wound of the forehead.

Mrs. Gilardi, the woman killed in the accident, must have suffered instant death. She was not brought to the hospital but after the arrival of the State Highway Patrolmen from South Langhorne her body was removed to the morgue of Luigi Galzerano, here, as was also the body of DiCicco.

Several hours later Americo Dellarosa, driver of the automobile in which the two victims were riding, who is said to have fled from the scene of the accident, was arrested at a bus station on North Willow street, Trenton, where he purchased a ticket for Newark and was waiting for a bus. Police Chauffeur James Zolney, standing nearby, overheard two strangers discussing the fatal crash which they had witnessed, and on the strength of their remarks, he took Dellarosa, who had a bandage on his head, into custody.

The prisoner at Police Headquarters admitted that he had driven the car. He said that he became frightened after the accident and walked to Trenton, not knowing that anyone had been killed. He told Acting Lieutenant Maher further that the truck had no tail lights burning when he crashed into it.

According to the police, Dellarosa operated his automobile under New York registration although he had made his home for the past year at Tullytown.

The man was brought from Trenton to Bristol shortly before noon today. Taylor, the driver of the truck, although in no way held responsible for the accident by the authorities, was placed under arrest by Patrolman McAfee and brought to the Bristol Municipal Building. Taylor was given a hearing before Justice Edw. Lynn and held in $2,000 bail to await the action of the coroner.

The dead bodies were viewed by Deputy Coroner W. Firman Young and released to their relatives.

WOMAN'S NEXT GOAL

It seems now to be necessary to call imagination to one's aid to believe that once there was a "militant" feminist movement, and that many respectable persons thought it was horribly radical and perverse. And it is no less hard to think that those fine old ladies who sit quietly on the platform at political meetings of women were one-time very fiery leaders of the reviled "cause."

Yet it was not so many years back that the suffragettes were doing everything from smashing windows to "imperialing the empire."

One dare not say the suffragettes were remarkable women. So far as can be learned they were, except for their courage and vigor, rather ordinary women. And are not nearly all women courageous and vigorous? In that campaign they were ordinary women gone berserk, become determined and resolute, fearless and powerful.

In its time the militant stroke seemed almost unthinkable. Now that its purpose has been accomplished and accepted it does not seem to have been unusual except as a sudden and astonishing revelation of woman's ability to carry on war when she deems it right to do so. They hastened progress even when their tactics seemed most foolish and violent. Above all, they showed that woman could be a match for man in strength of purpose and in uncompromising action.

Some day another generation of "suffragettes" may go berserk again and prove that the presidency is not too high an office for one of their own sex.

IMPRACICAL ECONOMICS

Recently Wall Streeters, along with many lay readers, were impressed by a series of articles leading to the conclusion that the problems of industry could be solved only by the consumer's decision to save less and spend more. The articles admitted the theoretical propriety of reduced spending and increased saving when aggregate consumers' demand should have outrun producers' facilities. The gist of the series was that the present industrial dilemma is a producing capacity in excess of visible consumption. The citizen who spends his income increases consumption and therefore helps to establish an equilibrium. But if he saves his income and invests it, directly or indirectly, in securities issued by manufacturing concerns to enlarge their plant, he thereby helps to increase productive facilities while reducing potential consumption.

To disinterested persons, the reasoning seems entirely academic. Their natural comment was that the average citizen spends or saves, and presumably will continue to do so, according to his personal character or circumstances. Therefore, while the argument that he ought to adjust his use of surplus income to preserving equilibrium in trade might be unanswerable economically, practically it would get exactly nowhere.

If permanent prosperity and absolute abolition of unemployment depend upon establishing and enforcing an exact ratio between saving and spending, society must continue to get along with alternating periods of prosperity and hard times.

CHAPTER I

Bond street, deserted by shopping and sightseeing crowds, is not exhilarating. It is in fact rather depressing, to one who takes it between seven and eight o'clock on a typically wet and drizzling London night.

Save for an occasional belated clerk, a watchman or two and a policeman, the young man who was making his way from Regent to Clifford street found it practically his own and he did not like it.

He turned the corner of Clifford street, caught sight of his own image in the long mirror of a corner shop which reflected the light from a street lamp, saw how disgruntled he looked and managed to smile at himself. After all a disagreeable duty might as well be gone through with some spirit. He stopped to look in a bookshop window next to the entrance of the flats in which his stepmother had her temporary residence. He could see very little of the books, because of the dim light, but one large pile of new and gaily bound novels, well in the foreground with the price "seven-and-six" plainly marked, caught his eye. He gazed at them with interest, because seven-and-six (less than two dollars) represented the exact amount he had in his pocket.

He was so hungry that he could not help hoping that his stepmother would not ask him to dine, since he could not possibly accept if she did, and the mere mention of food would make him ravenous. His pride required that he refuse.

He had tasted nothing since breakfast. The journey to town had taken all but his precious seven-and-six, and he had yet to secure a night's lodging.

He found himself in the doorway, resitating, his hand on the bell. The neighborhood was not fashionable, but it was undoubtedly, for a country woman like his stepmother, both convenient and accessible. A few doors above him was the shop of a well-known shoemaker. He could see the shop from the doorstep. How many times he had come up this street to order a pair of shoes! Well, those carefree days were over. In fact they had come to an end when his father married the woman whose doorbell he was about to ring.

He gave the bell a savage pull and waited. There was no answer. He rang again.

Faint and far away he heard the rumble of something that must be an elevator. He shook the water from his hat and sighed.

The door was opened by a very pretty young girl in a maid's cap and gown.

"Lady Sandison."

"Yes, sir."

The maid indicated the elevator, which was in the middle of the narrow dimly lighted hall. The floor was covered with a black and white patterned linoleum. A dark marble-topped stand stood near the doorway, containing a mirror in which it was impossible to see oneself. Surrounding the mirror were several wooden pegs on which to hang hats and coats although none were hung there. There was a small, tarnished, silver-plated tray for cards on the marble top of this stand, and about it were scattered several letters and papers. It was the sole piece of furniture in the hall.

The maid paused to gather up the letters and papers before she followed the young man past the stairs, which were rather ornate as to handrail, balusters and newel post.

The young man had glanced quickly at the scattered letters before taking his way down the hall, reassured that none of them were in his handwriting, consequently his stepmother must have received the note he had sent from Liverpool.

The elevator was so small that when the maid entered, there was barely room for one passenger. The maid closed the door and the antiquated little contrivance began its slow ascent.

After his long sojourn in the Americas, both South and Central, the first glimpse of the hall, the lift and the maid had given him an odd feeling, like that experienced in a dream which the dreamer feels he has had before. The next moment, even as with the dreamer, he had forgotten all that had been daily sight and experience for some time, and was once more part of the "British" environment in which he found himself, all strangeness gone.

His stepmother's flat was the front flat on the second floor. The maid brought the elevator to a standstill and preceded him down a narrow hallway. The young man followed, trying to picture what this meeting would be like.

The maid, after a perfunctory knock, thrust open the door and announced: "A gentleman to see you, Lady Sandison."

"Come in," said a full deep voice with a good honest Scotch burr in it, and the young man walked in.

The sitting room looked very cozy, after the wet streets. The curtains were drawn and the fire was blazing. In one of the easy chairs, a large one, drawn close to the fire, her feet on the fender, sat a dumpy little woman with red-fair hair that was slowly turning gray. Her features were quite regular. Her complexion was clear red and white. She wore a black dress with white collar and cuffs, well and simply made, which gave her an air of greater refinement than was really hers. She could not, however, cloak her Scots' tongue. It is difficult to do Lady Sandison's speech justice in cold print. There was a crispness, a richness, a rolling of the r's, a tendency to make "dinner," "deener" that an attempt to illustrate by letters would only travesty.

The young man advanced toward his stepmother, who had not risen, with outstretched hand.

"Sir Geordie," the dumpy little woman said, rising slowly to her feet and holding his hand, "it's grand to see you again."

As Sir George stood looking down at her, a slow smile lifted the corner of her lips. "Dear, dear! But you're an awful height laddie—I mean Sir Geordie."

"Dear, Dear! But You're an Awful Height, Laddie."

"Oh, why not the 'laddie' if you like?"

His stepmother gave a quick look about her. The maid, all eyes, had left the room.

"Sit down, Sir Geordie," she said with an air of command that somehow seemed natural to her. "Have you engagements or will you dine with me? I've a deal to say."

"I'll dine with you, gladly," Sir George found himself saying. He was amazed at himself, or was it at Lady Sandison? It was the last thing he had contemplated, but since there was no way out now, he would continue at least to look as though duty and pleasure went hand in hand.

"Would an early dinner discommode you?"

"It would not. I would be glad to have it early. I've been traveling since morning."

"That'll suit me fine. I'll ring for the dinner now, and then we'll get to our talking."

She rang the bell and looked again at her stepson.

"Dear Sakes! It's queer enough to think of you and me sitting down together."

Sir George frowned, but before he could voice his evident annoyance, the woman spoke again.

"I've been wanting to tell you several things for a long while past. But they were not such things as could be put on paper, so I had to bide in patience until I could get at you, so to speak."

The maid appeared again, and was briefly told to see about the dinner at once. "Sir George is dining with me."

The maid gave a pleased stare at Lady Sandison, with her "Yes m'lady," which led Sir George to surmise correctly that she had been taken, at least a short distance, into Lady Sandison's confidence.

But Aggy, Lady Sandison, never took anyone too far into her confidence. She had confided to the landlady through the maid, that the young man was expected. She had also hinted that she might "have him to dinner if he was not that engaged that he hadn't a minute to spare, even for a stepmother." She had further added: "And I have that much to talk about with him that, in case we have not got through by midnight, I'll be asking you to leave sheets and

JOIN THE MINUTE MEN OF 1930!

No less patriotic than the colonists at Lexington and Concord are the thousands of Minute Men who respond to the Fire Prevention Week roll call:

Neither is this a movement in which men alone are concerned. Stimulated by the President's proclamation—by the proclamations of Governors—countless men, women and children—through civic bodies, business organizations, schools, clubs and other means—will unite to insure the success of

Fire Prevention Week—Oct. 5-11

Insurance indemnifies by furnishing money for rebuilding burned buildings and replacing destroyed property, but the greater gain to any individual or community is in the prevention of those losses—in possessions, in time, in years of effort—which insurance cannot possibly replace.

Be one of the Minute Men of 1930 and join in this ever-spreading movement to curb and control fire and thus decrease the frightful sacrifice of life and wealth, involving the loss of about 12,000 lives annually, a direct property loss of 500 million dollars a year and an indirect loss of probably that much more.

companies, through the National Board of Fire Underwriters and affiliated organizations, are substantial supporters of the vast national movement for the reduction of fire hazards. They maintain staffs of engineers, and experts in fire prevention, whose facilities and services are always available without charge to any individual or community.

The spirit of Fire Prevention Week is growing. Make yourself a part of it—in your own practices even if not as an active participant in its observance.

BENSALEM TOWNSHIP

Last Friday evening found quite a few Bensalem folks attending the Social given by the Neshaminy Lodge Independent Order of Odd Fellows. The social was given in honor of the sister lodge called the "Wild Rose" Rebekah Lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Seltzer and son, Harry, and Mr. Sweegert, Seltzer's boarder, visited Mr. and Mrs. Williams on Sunday.

All members of Camp 530, P. O. S. of A., are expected to attend the regular meeting next Tuesday to go in a body to the Holmesburg Camp where the Philadelphia and Bucks County district meeting will be held.

On Sunday, September 21st, the Bensalem M. E. Church will celebrate their 120th anniversary. The speaker for the occasion will be Rev. Dr. Snyder, head of the Department of Religious Education at Temple University. The evening service will begin at 7.45 p. m.

On September 15th, at 9.15 o'clock, a fire started in the garage of John Rigby. It seems that Mr. Rigby and family were on their vacation. Their son, Roy, and wife, from Trenton, were occupying the house at the time. Roy Rigby was working on his car in the garage with a two gallon can of gasoline nearby. An electric bulb was suspended near the workman. The bulb burst with the result that the gas ignited. Mr. Rigby called for help. The neighbors responded immediately. Before the fire companies—both Cornwells No. 1 and Union—appeared at the scene the fire was extinguished. Very little damage was done.

All those who didn't attend the E. I. A. Social on Thursday evening missed a wonderful time. Music was furnished by a radio combination. Prizes were won by Miss Lela Rodgers, Mr. Hugh Rodgers, Mrs. Harry Seltzer and son, Harry. Everyone had a fine time. Mrs. Elitha Mortimer, wife of John Mortimer, is confined to her bed with a serious illness.

Arrest Driver of Auto In Which 2 Were Killed

DiCicco is survived by his widow, two daughters and one son; Mrs. Gillardi is survived by one daughter and three sons.

DiCicco conducted a grocery store in Tullytown and was a veteran of the World War. He was a resident of Italy at the time of the war and fought under the Italian flag. He moved to Tullytown about July 4, 1920.

After the crash, State Police from Morrisville, Highway Patrolmen from South Langhorne, Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo and Constable Thomas Crawford searched the vicinity of the accident for hours in an endeavor to locate Dellarosa. Every inch of ground was combed and even the arsenal property was gone over.

The second accident occurred early today at Cornwells when a car crashed into a pole and knocked the transformer off, and then the car turned over on the State Road opposite the fire station.

Frank Dickel, prominent Republican politician of the northeast section of Philadelphia, and superintendent at the Disston saw factory, suffered a fractured skull. A companion, Edward Lane, was cut and bruised. The car is a complete wreck.

ported there is a stretch of roadway, where the cars are running on the concrete roadway because the rail is worn out.

Complaints were read at the meeting about the unlicensed dogs running at large, but it was stated that a representative from the State Department has been in town making a check-up on stray dogs and it is expected this nuisance will be attended to.

Council voted to send out bills for the property owners on the north side of Trenton Avenue from Pennsylvania Avenue to Crown Street and on the east side of Pennsylvania Avenue from Trenton to Fairview Avenue. These bills are for the improvements made there by the installation of a French drain, relaying of curbs and gutters. The assessment map has been completed. Council will hear appeals on these bills after they are rendered in the Council Chamber, Tuesday night, October 21.

This family is all that survived in a family of 28 that were born within seven days at the school recently. The mother is well and is proudly exhibited in a section near her 19 little ones.

This afternoon the first harness racing matinee of the week will get under way. There will be two well filled classes that will be divided into four races. The free acts will be put on for the first this afternoon.

Although the concessions are not as numerous as last year the type of concession granted permission to take part in the fair this year is a much higher grade.

There are many local organizations taking part in the fair midway this year. The business men have also strained a point to present even better exhibits than last year.

The new Village Improvement Association building where first aid will be administered and babies cared for during the week was opened for the first time this morning. Women of Doylestown will have charge of this building, serving on shifts during the week.

Tomorrow is "American Legion Day." Post Commander Russell B. Gulick, and District Deputy Commander Samuel Spare, of the A. R. Atkinson Post of the Legion, announced this morning that at least ten posts will take part in the drum and bugle corps competition on Wednesday night in front of the grandstand. Details of the competition will be broadcast through the microphone during the competition.

Farmers interested in the very latest type of farm machinery will find a larger and better exhibit this year than ever before.

KONJOLA ENDS NEURITIS AND STOMACH PAINS

New Medicine Attacks Source of Stubborn and Painful Ailments; Brings Quick Relief

MR. P. S. COY

"I suffered with neuritis and stomach trouble for over four years," said Mr. P. S. Coy, 714 Summit avenue, Johnstown. "Neuritis pains centered in my shoulders, back, neck and up into my head. I could not turn my head as my neck was so stiff and sore. There was never a day or night that I was free from pain and some days I was absolutely helpless. My stomach was weak and gas and stomach pains followed every meal. Eating was a dreaded task."

"I spent hundreds of dollars in my search for relief, but nothing helped until I found Konjola. The first bottle of Konjola corrected stomach trouble. By the time I had finished the fourth bottle I found that I did not have a pain in my body, and for the first time in years I could move my head freely without pain. My general health became greatly improved and I gained 16 pounds in weight."

Konjola's records contain countless endorsements telling how from six to eight bottles of this modern medicine won remarkable victories over stubborn ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and over rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

Konjola is sold in Bristol at Hoffman's Cut Rate store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—(Adv.)
